

Fall 2023 Newsletter

Dear Friend,

In this issue of our newsletter, we're proud to share the impact we're making in southern Haiti despite the ongoing humanitarian crisis.

I hope you'll take a moment to read about how we're leading an exciting, five-year project that will help improve access to high-quality health care throughout the region. By working together with USAID, Haiti's Ministry of Health, and a half-dozen partner facilities in the south, we're extending our unique model for health service delivery far beyond our walls. This newsletter also includes a profile of SBH's new Director General, Dr. Miliane Clermont. And with hurricane season continuing through the end of November, there's a timely article about disaster preparedness.

I also wanted to make sure you don't miss our 2023 Celebration, which is coming up on November 2nd! There's still time to purchase a ticket or sponsorship and join us as we celebrate 40 years of proving that health equity is possible in Haiti. I hope to see you there!

On behalf of all our patients and staff, thank you for your steadfast support.

Spotlight on our NICU

Women with high-risk pregnancies travel from far and wide to deliver their babies in the safety of St. Boniface Hospital. Infants needing extra care are then admitted to our neonatal intensive care unit (NICU), where they receive the care they need to grow healthy and strong.

For the last two months, our dedicated NICU team has been caring for an average of 40 newborns every single day—53% more babies than in the first quarter of the year.
